Investment objective

Causeway International Small Cap Fund seeks long-term growth of capital.

The Fund invests primarily in common stocks of companies with smaller market capitalizations located in developed and emerging markets outside the U.S. The Fund normally invests at least 80% of its total assets in equity securities of companies with smaller market capitalizations. Smaller market capitalization companies are companies with market capitalizations that do not exceed the highest market capitalization of a company within the Fund's benchmark, the MSCI ACWI ex USA Small Cap Index, at the time of purchase.

Fund features

- Actively managed, tracking-error oriented, quantitative strategy
- Combines bottom-up and top-down factors in security selection
- Supports strict risk controls in stock selection process
- Provides diversification benefits to a developed markets portfolio

The performance data quoted herein represents past performance. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. The investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth less than their original cost, and current performance may be lower than the performance quoted. For performance data current to the most recent month end, please call 1.866.947.7000.

Returns greater than one year are annualized. Total returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions at net asset value when paid. Investment performance reflects contractual fee waivers. In the absence of such fee waivers, total return would be reduced. Investor Class shares charge up to a 0.25% annual shareholder service fee. High relative or absolute performance may not be repeatable.

The MSCI ACWI ex USA Small Cap Index is a free float-adjusted market capitalization weighted index, designed to measure the equity market performance of smaller capitalization stocks in developed and emerging markets, excluding the US market. The index is gross of withholding taxes, assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, and assumes no management, custody, transaction, or other expenses. Indices are unmanaged and one cannot invest directly in an index.

Market commentary

Equity prices continued to decline in the second quarter as accelerated central bank tightening and recession fears weighed on the outlook for economic growth. International smaller capitalization (“cap”) equities, as measured by the MSCI ACWI ex USA Small Cap Index (“Index”) underperformed international large caps during the second quarter as investor appetite for risk fell sharply. Within smaller cap equities, emerging market (“EM”) stocks outperformed their developed market (“DM”) peers for the second quarter. Thus, our overweight to EM equities added value during the period. From a sector perspective, the strongest performers in the Index were energy, utilities, and consumer staples. The worst performing Index sectors were materials, information technology, and communication services.

The Causeway International Small Cap Fund (“Fund”) performed in-line with the Index during the quarter. To evaluate stocks in our investable universe, our multi-factor quantitative model employs four bottom-up factor categories – valuation, earnings growth, technical indicators, and competitive strength – and two top-down factor categories assessing macroeconomic and country aggregate characteristics. Returns to our value factors were positive in the second quarter. However, the more cyclically exposed parts of value underperformed in June on heightened global recession fears. Nevertheless, value was the best-performing factor group in the first half of 2022 and over the last twelve months. For the strategy’s earnings growth alpha factors, performance was positive for the second quarter. Our technical factors delivered the highest returns in the second quarter. Our competitive strength factor category also delivered positive returns for the quarter. For the quarter, returns to our two top-down factor groups were largely flat. All factor group returns remain positive from inception of the Fund (10/20/14) to the end of June.

From a sector perspective, Fund holdings in materials, consumer staples, and industrials detracted the most from performance relative to the Index. Fund holdings in the financials, information technology, and real estate sectors offset a portion of the underperformance. Relative performance for the quarter can be mostly attributed to stock selection. Various stock exposures in materials, industrials (shipping), and energy detracted from relative performance. These stocks generally appear inexpensive according to our valuation models, however they underperformed as commodity prices fell due to increased fears of a global recession. The top detractor for the quarter was aluminum producer, National Aluminum Co. Ltd. (India). Additional top detractors included food processing company, Marfrig (Brazil), computer hardware manufacturer, Gigabyte Technology Co., Ltd. (Taiwan), consumer electronics company, JB Hi-Fi Ltd. (Australia), and steelmaker, SSAB (Sweden). The top contributor for the period was electric utility, Electric Power Development Co., Ltd. (Japan). Additional top contributors included coal miner, PT Bukit Asam Tbk (Indonesia), freight forwarding company, Kintetsu World Express, Inc. (Japan), coal supplier, PT Indo Tambangraya Megah Tbk (Indonesia), and global fintech firm, Plus500 Ltd. (United Kingdom).

Risk Disclosures: Mutual fund investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal. In addition to the normal risks associated with equity investing, international investing may involve risk of capital loss from unfavorable fluctuations in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles, or from economic or political instability in other nations. Emerging markets involve heightened risks related to the same factors, as well as increased volatility and lower trading volume. Investments in smaller companies involve additional risks and typically exhibit higher volatility. Current and future holdings are subject to risk. Diversification does not protect against market loss. There is no guarantee that securities mentioned will remain in or out of the Fund.

A yield curve is a line that plots yields (interest rates) of bonds having equal credit quality but differing maturity dates. The slope of the yield curve gives an idea of future interest rate changes and economic activity. Alpha is performance in excess of a benchmark.

The market commentary expresses the portfolio managers' views as of the date of this report and should not be relied on as research or investment advice regarding any stock. These views and the portfolio holdings and characteristics are subject to change. There is no guarantee that any forecasts made will come to pass. Any securities identified and described in this report do not represent all of the securities purchased, sold or recommended for client accounts.
