Market commentary

The Russian invasion of Ukraine and related economic fallout weighed on EM assets during the first quarter. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index ("Index") returned -6.10% in local currency terms during the period. The emerging Europe, Middle East, and Africa ("EMEA") region was the poorest performing region in local currency terms. The emerging Asia region also posted negative returns while the emerging Latin America region posted positive performance during the period. Consumer discretionary, energy, and health care were the weakest performing sectors within the Index. Financials, materials, and utilities were the top performing sectors in the first quarter.

The Causeway Emerging Markets UCITS Fund ("Fund") outperformed the Index during the quarter. We use both bottom-up "stock-specific" and top-down factor categories to seek to forecast alpha for the stocks in the Fund's investable universe. Our bottom-up price momentum, growth, and valuation factors were positive indicators while competitive strength was negative during the quarter. Of our top-down factors, sector was a positive indicator. Currency, macroeconomic, and country were negative indicators during the quarter.

Over the quarter, Fund holdings in the emerging Asia region contributed to relative performance, primarily due to positive stock selection in China, India, and South Korea. Positioning in EMEA detracted from relative performance. In emerging Latin America, stock selection in Brazil was the primary driver of relative underperformance. From a sector perspective, the greatest contributors to relative performance were materials, consumer discretionary, and consumer staples. The largest detractors from relative performance were energy, information technology, and financials. The greatest stock-level contributors to relative performance included overweight positions in integrated aluminum producer & copper manufacturer, Hindalco Industries (India), bank, Banco do Brasil SA (Brazil), bank, China Construction Bank Corp. (China), and insurance company, PICC Property & Casualty Co., Ltd. (China), as well as an underweight position in e-commerce platform for local products & services, Meituan (China). The largest stock-level detractors from relative performance included overweight positions in integrated circuit manufacturer, Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co., Ltd. (Taiwan), and semiconductor engineer, MediaTek, Inc. (Taiwan), as well as an underweight positions in diversified metals & mining operator, Vale SA (Brazil), energy company, Reliance Industries Ltd. (India), and bank, Itaú Unibanco Holding SA (Brazil).
